Tribute from Dan Washburn

Relation: Brother

My earliest recollection of Scott was late from around 1972....he showed me how he could put his arm up the nostril of a moose head laying in the yard. The hunt had gone well. Liked him instantly and loved him like a brother. I was glad to spend a day with him and my brother Ray this past summer when he was in Ontario. We laughed and reminisced and razzed the crap out of each other....gonna miss him. We shared a love for country music and he was always supportive of my singer/songwriter career...and I'll be writing one for him when I can. I'm hoping he's hanging out with our dads; without the moose head...
